From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Windy Sure "Stopped The Show"!

The other night a bunch of us were over at Judge Cunningham's watching a swell vaudeville program on his new television set. It came in fine, but just once, the screen got a little streaky.

Before the Judge could touch the knob to bring it into focus, old Windy Taylor starts fooling around with the antenna connection. "I can fix that!" he says.

Windy fixed it all right. He "stopped the show" for us, and Buzz Ellis had to come over and do a $20 repair job. I understand Windy feels so bad, that he's paying the bill and has apologized to the Judge for acting so smart.

From where I sit, it pays to practice a little restraint whenever we get the urge to meddle. Whether it's television or a person's right to enjoy a temperate glass of sparkling beer now and then—let's get a good clear "picture" of the real situation before we cause more harm than good.

Franklin Will Reveals Ben Was Wealthy at Age of 42

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—In a will written in 1757, Benjamin Franklin intended to leave his wealth and personal belongings to relatives, friends and institutions.

This was disclosed when the long lost will was made public by the Franklin institute as part of the celebration of its 125th anniversary. It also was the 200th anniversary of Franklin's discovery that lightning was electrical.

Franklin was wealthy when he quit business at the age of 42. Dr. Robert A. Millikan, California Institute of Technology, said the philosopher retired with an income of about $15,000 a year, which he termed equal to approximately $50,000 today.

He willed various small amounts of money, property and personal belongings to members of his family.

All of his household goods and furniture were willed to his wife to dispose of as she desired. Income from his printing business, which he owned jointly with David Hall, was divided equally among his wife, son William and daughter Serah.

He also provided that in event of his wife's death and no offspring had been born to his children, the printing business income should go to the children and grandchildren of his brothers and sisters.

His wife was willed two houses and lots on Market street in Philadelphia. Another house in Boston was to go to his youngest sister, Jane Mecom. At the time of the will Franklin held the mortgage on the Boston house, occupied by his eldest sister, Elizabeth Douse.

All his electrical apparatus was to be awarded to Yale college at New Haven, Conn.

FIELD DAY PLANNED AT TOBACCO STATION

Virginia farmers will have a chance to visit experimental plots and hear a resume of research projects at a field day at the Bright Tobacco Research Station at Chatham, July 22, Station Agronomist E. M. Mathews announces.

Visitors also will inspect experimental plots of corn and alfalfa.

NEMATODE CONTROL STUDIED AT STATION

Soil fumigation with DD mixture, or Iscobrome D, has been found very effective against the tobacco root knot nematode under field conditions, says Dr. R. G. Henderson, plant pathologist for Virginia Experiment Station.

The same treatments greatly reduced the meadow nematode populations in the plant soil bed, and in the field.

PEACH CROP MARKETING TO BE HEAVY IN AUGUST

A peach crop of more than 1,953,000 bushels, with heaviest marketings about August 1, has been forecast by the Agricultural Extension Service at V. P. I.

Horticulturalist A. H. Teske, and marketing specialist J. L. Maxton, say the expected crop is "slightly over-average," and they advise the growers to make every effort to maintain a quality pack, and to use low grades of peaches on the farm.

Specific recommendations for harvesting and marketing are available from the Extension Service and from county agents.

The specialists also released dates and places of expected marketings:

Elberta and J. H. Hale, July 20 to August 1, Burkeville and Dillwyn. July 25 to August 5, Roanoke and Cleverdale; August 1 to 10, Cronot, Charlottesville, Lovingston and Amherst; August 5 to 20, Madison, Timberville and Mt. Jackson; August 10 to 31, Staunton; August 20 to 31, Winchester.
